Abstract

This paper tries to explore the socio-cultural dimensions of ICT use among youths and the influence on family lifestyle. It examined some characteristics of youths that predispose them to internet use, which include: advantages and disadvantages of ICT by the youth; effects of ICT on the lifestyle of the youth; implications of ICT use on the family and ways of curbing excessive use of ICT by the youths. The paper recommends therefore, that Parents should endeavor to monitor their children closely in order to curb some of the vices introduced by ICT.
